AVALANCHE CRUSHED HOTEL.

Thirteen People Killed and 15 More Injured in a Swiss Town.

Berne, Switzerland, March 2.—An avalanche descended yesterday near the village of Goppenstein. The enormous atmospheric pressure which accompanied it demolished an inn at the mouth of the Loetschental tunnel works, killing 13 persons and injuring 15 others. The occupants of the hotel, numbering 30, were surprised while seated at the table by sinister rumblings. Almost immediately two children rushed into the diningroom and screamed, "An avalanche! an avalanche!" There was a rush to escape but the building, which was of a temporary nature, collapsed without warning. Both of the children were killed along with many of those they had sought to save. Among the others killed was an American engineer named Mervart, who was installing American machinery to be used for tunneling.

The hotel had been erected by the tunnel contractors for the convenience of the engineers and others engaged in construction work. There were no tourists there.

The village post-office and police station also were seriously damaged by the air wave and were looted over to an angle of forty-five degrees, making their occupancy impossible. The tunnel works were not damaged.
